Defence of Nerea Molina’s Doctoral Thesis

09/10/2023

After four years of dedicated work, on 6 October 2023, Nerea Molina successfully defended her doctoral thesis entitled “The microbiome of the male reproductive tract: uncovering its composition and origins”.

This thesis, which received an international distinction, was awarded the grade of ‘Outstanding Cum Laude’ by a distinguished panel comprising Dr Merli Saare, Dr Lara Bossini and Dr Nicolás Garrido.

The thesis defence gave rise to an interesting and lively scientific debate. Afterwards, we celebrated this significant achievement with a lovely meal at the iconic La Platería, situated in the heart of the Albaicín.

Congratulations, Dr Molina!
